CES Group Exhibits Energy Saving Solutions

Eden Prairie, MN (September 22, 2009)—CES Group™ exhibited energy saving technologies at the National Facilities Management and Technology Expo (NFMT) held in the Las Vegas Convention Center in Las Vegas, NV September 22-23, 2009. Attendees were able to see products such as Venmar CES™ energy recovery ventilation, Mammoth® water-source/ground-source heat pumps (WSHP), and HUNTAIR® FANWALL TECHNOLOGY®.

Energy Recovery Ventilation Benefits to Building Owners:

- Reduce energy bill by reclaiming energy from exhaust airstream to temper outdoor airstream
- Reduce the cooling/heating plant size with a dedicated outdoor air system
- Improve building humidity management

Ground-Source Heat Pump Benefits to Building Owners:

- Can use earth or cooling tower as a heat source and sink saving on building space and energy use.
- Unit is ground-source ready out of the box saving on installation time and cost.
- Mammoth offers a wide range of WSHP products to fit a number of application needs.
- Ability to accommodate widely varying internal heating and cooling zones.

FANWALL TECHNOLOGY Benefits to Building Owners:

- Increase reliability through redundancy of fans.
- Lower energy bills and connected load with smaller, high energy efficiency fans.
- Quiet air handling system down, especially in low frequencies.
- Reduce footprint of air handler by as much as 50% to return real estate to the owner.
- Lower maintenance bills with no belts to change or bearings to grease.

The companies affiliated with the CES Group are some of the world's leading custom-engineered air conditioning manufacturers, offering a full range of products from ½ to 2000+ tons and 200 to 400,000+ cfm, and sold under such leading brands as CLEANPAK®, Governair®, HUNTAIR®, Mammoth®, Temtrol®, Venmar CES™, Ventrol®, WEBCO™, and Eaton-Williams®.
